CHAMBERLAIN HITS RUMORS OF COALITION

Prime Minister Says He May Ask For Consultation

PARIS, March 16.—Great Britain's promise to take concerted action to defend France to the Mediterranean if France's North African communications are threatened by Hitler's forces in Spain was today rejected by the French night by Premier Leon Blum.

LONDON, March 16.—Rumors that formation of a coalition government might be under consideration apparently were quashed by Prime Minister Chamberlain today in the House of Commons. He said he was prepared to do anything to keep the coalition in existence.

SPECULATION RIFE ON NEW ROADS PROBE

Possibility Of Further Investigation In Talk In Corridors

Speculation was rife in legislative corridors as to whether the highways construction debate in the House today would result in further investigation. The debate, which was one of the most fiery and impetuous in the annals of the House, led to many statements and charges being leveled which may result in further investigation.

John J. Bowen, Liberal, contended that as a result of investigation he had saved the people of the province $100,000. He also stated that the investigation included only two projects and should have included all the highways of the province.

Mr. Fallow charged that his former deputy had made a false return and that when he entered the court room in the inquiry, he was confronted by officials of the Pro-prietary League and, in this connection, indicated J. W. Huggill, C.C., former attorney general, was concerned.

30,000 Armed Troops Reported on Way to Assist Fascist Organization—Hitler Sends In Fully Equipped Army

PARIS, March 16.—Premier Leon Blum today dispatched an urgent appeal to Prime Minister Chamberlain to join him in immediate attempts to bring about a Spanish armistice.

LONDON, March 16.—Great Britain's foreign policy, especially as regards non-intervention in Spain, may be drastically changed within the next few days, and war clouds are said to be hanging more ominously over the British Empire than at any time in the last five years. So tense is the situation in London that stock exchange prices are crashing down to new low levels, and there is a wild rush on the part of speculators to buy gold and dollars.

See Direct Threat Of Domination

British observers see in the move a direct threat of domination of Spain and the Mediterranean by Germany and Italy.

Not only is the British Admiralty greatly perturbed and pressing Prime Minister Chamberlain for action but the High Commissioners from Australia and New Zealand are asking for consultations with Lord Halifax with a view to the government taking action to see that Spain is not allowed to fall into the hands of Germany and Italy with the life line of empire at stake.

Situation Is Extremely Grave

The situation is extremely grave. Already 5,000 German troops equipped with highly mechanized equipment are in San Sebastian and another 30,000 are expected to land almost immediately. They are reported to have left Germany on March 10.

France Also Becoming Alarmed

France is also gravely alarmed. It is recognized now that if the policy of non-intervention on the part of Great Britain and France is continued, nothing can stop General Franco's march to the sea.

DELEGATION IS SEEKING ACTION ON RELIEF RUBE

Deputy Mayor Ald. John T. McCreath joined with spokesmen for the Union of Alberta Municipalities Wednesday morning in making representations to the provincial board of relief and public welfare with respect to residence qualifications for relief cases.

Russia Backs Czechs Poland Attacks Hitler

Voice of St. James Street

Editorial

TRUE to its traditions as the Edmonton loud speaker for St. James Street, the Journal is deeply grieved that the Liberal party in Alberta did not fall into the "unity" trap so cunningly laid by the Conservative leaders and their so-called People's League of mortgage and loan agencies and defectors.

The Conservative party was ruined by the "sound money" policy of Right Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., with his advice to Canadians suffering the fury of unchecked deflation that they "tighten their belts" and live like their forefathers.

Mr. Bennett is still the leader of the Conservative group in the House of Commons, his policy is still the policy of that group, and this situation will continue until and unless a convention some time next summer chooses a new leader and lays down a new policy. Only yesterday Mr. Bennett scoffed at the idea that it was of any importance that the Bank of Canada had been brought under Government control, and with it the power to regulate money and credit in terms of the public need.

The Journal, reflecting the view which no doubt prevails in St. James Street, would like East Edmonton voters to send Mr. Cleveley to Ottawa. For two stated reasons. First that he is not a Social Creditist. Second that the Journal does not like Hon. James G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture.

However sufficient these reasons may seem to the Journal, the important matter is what Mr. Cleveley would do at Ottawa if he got there. He would increase by one the numerical strength of the party which by leadership and tradition is pledged to "sound money," with all the implications from unchecked deflation to lost homes, bankrupt farmers, relief lines and tightened belts.

That, whatever his personal opinions may be, is the place Mr. Cleveley would occupy in the parliamentary lineup, and the place any other man must occupy who is elected under the Conservative banner at the present time.

St. James Street prefers Mr. Cleveley as the new member for East Edmonton. That is unquestionable. It is a point the voters in that constituency would do well to ponder.

SECRET M.L.A.'S CHALLENGED BY R. C. MARSHALL

In all 1 hour from the House of Commons.

James A. MacKinnon, Liberal M.P. for West Edmonton, and A. H. H. Macdonald also spoke in support of Mr. Marshall. Leonard Sims was chairman.

Glancing at the group of M.L.A.s at the rear of the school assembly hall, Mr. Marshall opened his speech with the remark: "My criticism of the provincial government are directed against the gentlemen sitting there, and those who have betrayed the province of Alberta, and not against the rank and file who bravely voted for $25 a month."

The candidate then plunged into a discussion of the shortage of homes in Edmonton, declaring that two years ago the city was short 2,000 homes and this shortage was increased by 500 yearly. If an adequate home-building program were adopted, every able-bodied person unemployed in the city would be given work, and a total of $500,000 a year would disappear and the property mill rate would be slashed 10 mills, he said.

FEDERAL FUNDS

The Dominion government had $100,000,000 available for a program, even $100,000,000 if necessary, Mr. Marshall stated. But this was not obtainable because of the lack of confidence in Alberta.

"I don't agree with Social Credit, but the party has a right to its beliefs. Why can't they co-operate with Ottawa in this matter?" he asked.

He also referred to his proposal to reduce the age for the pension from 65 to 60 years, the government paying pensions with revenue derived from sharply graduated taxes levied on individuals and corporations and succession duties.

"People had no right to huge fortunes, and it was only right they should be required to contribute substantially to the country's needs, he said. "People say I'm radical. Well, I'd sooner be a radical than a reactionary," Mr. Marshall declared.

Attacking the provincial government for imposing the new default two per cent sales tax, the candidate said: "The tax was finally abolished and then Mr. Low (pro-vice treasurer) had the nerve to say the abolition of the tax was your first dividend. Why didn't you give the tax per cent, and give you a real dividend?"

WAGE TAX

Turning his attention to the wage tax, Mr. Marshall reiterated his charge that the government had planned to make the one per cent levy on rich and poor alike and then had denied the tax because of the possibility of a determination affecting Social Credit chances in the by-election.

"I'm going to ask the M.L.A.s whether they deny the wage tax was placed in the budget," he declared.

"Absolutely not. There was no wage tax in the budget," called a voice from the group of members in the back of the hall."

"But I know there was, and here's a copy of the printed sheet of paper."

Criticizing the government for increasing sectional identities, the speaker pointed out that while relief allowances were being cut in Calgary indemnities were being increased in the legislature.

"Only a dying government has the gall to help themselves the way they do," he remarked.

ANSI ACCUS

Herbert J. Ash, M.L.A., Olds, then charged that Mr. Howie's salary had been raised ten per cent.

"I deny that statement, Mr. Chairman," objected the cabinet minister. Mr. MacKinnon from his seat on the platform also said it was not true.

Declaring under a statement by Mr. Marshall that M.L.A.s had planned the wage tax in caucus, Mr. Robinson, M.L.A., asked: "Who told you the wage tax was discussed in the caucus?" It was right.

Mr. Marshall said he knew his statement to be true. "It's your method of doing business," he stated.

LAMPEY QUESTIONS

With reference to Mr. Marshall's advocacy of more homes for Edmonton, Mr. Lamprey, M.L.A., Peter River, said that when the council had requested the legislature's approval for a home-building program a delegation of taxpayers had opposed this move. "They said there were enough houses already, and that if more were built, rentals would be lost and homes forfeited to the city," he said.

Dr. G. J. Hopp, of the Taxpayers' Protective Association, said during the meeting Mr. Lamprey had been mistaken. "All we asked was that the cost of the houses should not be borne by taxpayers," he explained.

After asking support for Mr. Marshall, Mr. Howie drew particularly with the work of his portfolio, which includes railways, aviation and communications.

He stressed the fact that the subject. Mr. Gardiner said that the Dominion government had secured an expansion of credit.

There has been an expansion of 200 million dollars in Canadian bank deposits and currency in less than three years, the federal cabinet minister explained.

UP TO PEOPLE

"It is up to the people of Canada to say just how much control of currency they wish exerted by the Dominion government and in the Bank of Canada they have the instrument for securing that reform on sound constructive lines," Mr. Gardiner submitted.

As the meeting ended, ex-Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., a member of the audience, rose and asked permission to thank Mr. Gardiner for having made the best speech on public affairs I have ever heard."

Other speakers at the meeting were Mr. Marshall, P. J. Lazarowich, who appealed for Ukrainian support for the Liberal standard bearer, and Jack Marshall, Dick Holten was chairman.

UNEMPLOYMENT CUT

Unemployment in Canada had been almost halved since 1929, and in 1935 to 30,000 in 1937, by the Liberal government in its first two years in office, Mr. Gardiner submitted.

"I know that the improvement in Alberta has not been as great. That has been on account of drought which, though not as widespread as in Saskatchewan, has been considerable."

"I don't think we can deny me the right to suggest that the policies of the Social Credit government by trying to cure the situation by impossible measures have contributed to retard the movement of recovery and employment here."

"So I ask the voters of East Edmonton to join hands with the farmer and support the Liberal government which is fighting for reform on sound lines."

Nine provinces working together with the central government will pull us through: In disunion lies defeat," Mr. Gardiner declared in a ringing oration.

Following his address, Mr. Gardiner answered several questions from the audience.

CLOSELY KNIT

Reviewing the history of banking in Canada, Mr. Gardiner pointed out that changed conditions of communication and transportation have conquered distance and made the Dominion a more closely knit together unit.

"This fact has to be realized, as we should not hesitate to make changes where such changes have been necessary in order to meet the needs of the Canadian people."

In 1907, Mr. Gardiner related, a gentleman named Mr. King, no relative of the present prime minister of Canada, was invited by Sir John A. Macdonald to head a group studying the best method for a banking system in Canada to follow.

Although he was general manager of the Bank of Montreal, Mr. King in 1907 recommended that the Dominion should be entrusted with the control over currency and credit.

BROUGHT IN BILL

Sir John A. Macdonald then had his finance minister bring in a bill into parliament giving the Dominion such power.

"Remember that in the early days there were no railways, no telegraphs, no telephones, no telegrams. The obstacles to developing a young country, as vast as Canada, were many and formidable," Mr. Gardiner explained.

"These were people in the coast regions seeking capital for developing fishing, there were farmers on the western plains needing capital for the development of agriculture, there were people in the north needing money for the development of mining, the forest industry, and business in general."

"Gradually it was seen that the communication difficulties and the barriers of distance were so huge that having the control of currency and currency administered by the Dominion government was not working out as well as was expected."

HAD TO RESIGN

"In fact the finance minister who had introduced the bill giving the Dominion control of currency had to resign in order to save Sir John Macdonald's government from being defeated on the floor of the House of Commons."

"Sir John then went to his High Commissioner in London and asked him if he would consent to become finance minister and bring in a new banking bill."

"The Conservative premier and father of Confederation asked the commissioner what his views on the subject were."

"He told him that he would vote the same as the retired finance minister, but he was prepared to support the bill to give the wishes of the Canadian public, as the people had a right to get the legislation they wanted."

"And so we had the system of Dominion banking established in Canada, a system which continued with few changes until a few years ago."

"But I would like to point out that no one now would say that the Dominion bank in Canada as prevailed in the early days."

BARRIERS BROKEN

"The obstacles to unity have been conquered. The barriers to communication from coast to coast have been broken. The facts have changed, and we should not be unwilling to consider changed policies that will enable the government of Canada to serve the people of this country with greater and growing efficiency."

"No two countries in the world have the same banking system," Mr. Gardiner continued as he hushed the audience into silence by his fervent address.

"Canada's banking system is not the same as Scotland's, even though we copied its system, and the same can be said of any two countries in the world. Their systems are not the same because of their different mere carbon copies of those in any other country."

It is well to remember that in talking loosely about the so-called banking system. It is different in different countries."

CAN BE IMPROVED

"Now, it would be absolutely ridiculous and I am sure no one would suggest it, that the banking system of Canada has taken the best features of every banking system in the world. It is not perfect. It can be improved, and where we can improve it, we should not delay doing it."

"But let the reforms be wise, let the changes be necessary, let the improvements be sound and durable and not imaginary and impossible," Mr. Gardiner counselled.

It was up to the people of Canada, he declared, to make up their minds as to just how much control of credit and currency it wished to entrust to the Dominion government.

"The Bank of Canada, publicly controlled under the policies of the Liberal government, gives the people of Canada just that instrument to effect the desired extension and changes," Mr. Gardiner submitted amid applause.

Each of us breathes out enough carbon every hour, in the form of carbon dioxide, as much as a diamond at least 100 carats.

BERLIN PRESS TELLS CZECHS GERMAN PLAN

Footnote of Equality For German Minority in Republic said plan.

BERLIN, March 16.—News from the German press today told of the German government's absorption of Austria as a warning of the need of "an early and satisfactory solution" of the minority issue.

The German press, apparently on instruction, told the neighboring war-weary republic with 3,500,000 Germans to be reasonably, about meeting German demands.

Continued utterances by Nazi spokesmen, however, indicated they considered this problem for the moment overshadowed by the prospects of expansion, especially economically, opened up by Austria's annexation.

PUBLIC HOLIDAY

Berlin has a public holiday today to receive Reichsfuhrer Hitler as a conqueror here on his return from personally sealing the annexation of Austria.

On the Czech question, the Frankfurter Zeitung declared all German nations were for the Sudeten (South) Germans in Czechoslovakia to be put on a footing of equality with the Czechs and Slovaks.

In Praha, Karl Hermann Frank, vice-president of the Sudeten German party, warned the Czech government in the Chamber of Deputies to heed the perils in Germany's fusion with Austria.

Many ardent Nazis in Berlin approved convinced, privately, that the Czechs would not yield to German demands.

GERMAN AT BOTTOM

"Praha, after all, is a German city at the bottom. Its architecture and culture are all German."

Some indicated the problem was rather negligible for the time being because of the new German economic opening up by German-Austrian fusion.

Foodstuffs, which now can be broadened appreciably. Dairy products of which there has been a shortage, already are beginning to flow north from Austria.

AUSTRIAN ONE

Lumber also will be most welcome here, in return for which there will be coal supplies. Various Austrian areas seemed to be depleted extensively under Nazi efficiency.

Two major problems are lacking—wholesale oil.

Well informed financial circles said that because of these Nazi stringencies would centre upon money and methods of bringing Hungarian wheat and Rumanian oil within the reach of Germany's economy.

No New Machinery Purchased Result Of Fallow's Trip

Recent trip to the United States resulted in no new machinery being purchased, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works declared in the legislature on Tuesday, in reply to questions by W. N. Chant, Independent, Centre.

Answering further questions, the minister said that recommendations for purchase of machinery for the department were made by the officials in charge. Engineers or other officials, as a matter of policy, always were consulted before purchases were made.

Replying to other questions by Mr. Chant, the minister said that the international road show he visited, was held at Cleveland, O., from Jan. 16 to 21. He was away from Alberta for 11 days and his expenses totaled $10 and railway fare in the United States. Chicago and Cleveland were visited in the course of his visit.

THE REALITIES

The progress of the campaign and the trend of discussion provide ample proof that the interests of Edmonton will be well served by the election of Mr. Marshall as the Conservative candidate for East Edmonton on Monday next. Better served than they could be by the election of either of his opponents.

This city stands alone, directly and immeasurably, from the policy of northern development that has been adopted and is being actively carried out by the Government of Canada, which development Mr. Marshall is and has long been an aggressive advocate. Edmonton is at all places, the place to allow any amount to exist as its interest is not only its and its hearty approval of it. Edmonton voters could not afford to allow any impression that they were indifferent to the development of the north and the utilization of its vast and varied resources. If this means anything to any centre in Canada, Edmonton is the centre most concerned.

On general grounds, Mr. Marshall has to be classed as an advanced Liberal. His place in Ottawa will be among those supporters of the Government who stand for action based on facts rather than theories; for moderate tariff and trade expansion; for intelligent management of the interests of the public; for reduction of the old age pension age; and definitely and actively against the merger of the two railway systems and the wholesale "firing" of railwaymen.

Residents of East Edmonton who are interested in these very practical measures for betterment of conditions cannot be in any serious doubt as to vote for it. It is their election. Their interests are at stake. They are entitled to the polls and vote for the man who stands for these things.

BACK TO THE ON-CART

The venerable Senators returned the other day after a full month's holiday in the midst of a session of parliament, just in time to hear Senator Beaudin of Montreal lead off the general assault on the Canadian National Railway. Of course that is not what the Senator professed to be doing. He was merely professing to be doing the two systems, as the proposition is usually put for strategic reasons. And employed the usual arguments to the effect that the country would save a huge sum of money by the cutting of railway tracks, cutting down train service, giving employment to fewer railwaymen, and thereby effecting a saving in the government treasury by the merger of the two systems.

On the subject of how the public would fare at the hands of such a policy, Senator Beaudin was no misgivings. He would leave everything to the Transportation Commission, in full confidence that there could be no "aggression" and was "deeply impressed" with the wisdom of amalgamation of British railways and the proposed merger of United States lines.

Which might conceivably be a good enough argument for the people of Great Britain or the people of the United States, who never had any close-up acquaintance with the Canadian railway monopoly in Canada. Having had such experience, the people of western Canada will be somewhat slow about sharing the Senator's rosy anticipations as to the efficiency and low cost of railway transportation under the conditions of no competition.

They may also detect the flaw in the Senator's plausible calculations, which leave out of account entirely the fact that what might be saved in railway operation would be more than offset by the loss of the revenue from the sale of the land. The biggest factor, in fact the essential factor, in western settlement and in the opening up of wealth-producing resources in the east and west, has been railway transportation. To cut down service, to put up railway lines—and to interfere with the building of new ones—would be a pretty certain way of reducing the rate of production, and expanding production is a more hopeful way to bring back prosperity and build up the country than to start something off the operating cost of the railways.

If salvation lies in fewer railways and less railway service, why not tear them all up?

THE CAMROSE NORMAL

Omission from the provincial estimates of any sum for carrying on the Camrose Normal school is assumed to mean the intention is to close the school. It is not to be closed, however, term. Naturally the Camrose people are deeply concerned. The Normal having meant a good deal to their town both morally and financially. When the former Government proposed to close the school vigorous protests were registered, and political influence was used to the point where the Legislature was credited with averting the threat.

Edmonton people are able to appreciate the feelings of the Camrose people. They know that the Edmonton Normal having been closed for a time and the new million dollar building left idle. Only when the Edmonton school board agreed to rent part of the building for the Normal classes started again. In the meantime a large number of Edmonton students had to take their Normal training at Camrose, at heavy expense.

genue, while the city lost the benefits it would have received from outsiders coming here for training.

It is some ground for hope for the Camrose people however that it was recently stated in official quarters Alberta is facing a prospective shortage of teachers. If the outlook in that respect is serious, it is not only a well-equipped school may not be closed after all.

And should this happen it may not follow that the loss to the community will be as severe as supposed. There must be some other factor to which the building could be put, requiring the presence there of a considerable staff. An agricultural school, for example, would be a worthwhile substitute for the Normal.

ON WITH THE SHOOTINGS

The Independent Labor Party—which is the left wing of the Labor Party in the British House of Commons—appealed to the Soviet to stop the Moscow "shootings." A statement handed to the Russian ambassador said:

"The very nature of the confessions, the manner and technique of the trials and their preparation, and the inconceivable character of the alleged crimes, not only fail to convince—we have an opposite effect."

"This is not working class justice. It is a barbaric injustice. It is an insult and injury to all international working class ideals and interests. It is not the prisoners who have been in trial in Moscow. It is the system of bureaucracy which has grown up since the time of Lenin."

In the judgment of the radical section of the British Labor party the "trial" at Moscow were organized by the Soviet Government. It was a case, informed that Canada had not been excluded. Great Britain is still one of the self-governing Dominions of the British Commonwealth.

Mr. Woodworth, C.C.F. leader, wanted to know if Canada had been consulted in the Soviet trial. He said that the Soviet Government, he was told, informed that Canada had not been excluded. Great Britain is still one of the self-governing Dominions of the British Commonwealth.

Mr. L. M. S. Amery says Anthony Eden made his great mistake two years ago when he urged the imposition of "sanctions" against Italy, and should have resigned then. Mr. Eden's mistake, that is to say, of allowing the imposition of the League of Nations was an international obligation and not merely a "sacred" policy."

Police at New York arrested three alleged spies, charged with trying to secure U.S. air force secrets for Germany government. If any country is to be immune from any activities, it is the United States. The isolation days have gone surely when some trans-Atlantic government is willing to pay for information as to what the United States is doing to build up air defenses.

With the present volume of air traffic centering here and the certainty that it will multiply within the next five years, it is hard to imagine that the United States is not doing everything possible to the polls and vote for the man who stands for these things.

Chamberlain's Treason

By ROBERT DELL.

Robert Dell is the Manchester Guardian's correspondent in Geneva. His long experience and his knowledge of European affairs, and his comment at this critical period doubly valuable.

GENEVA, Feb. 22.—The week that began with Hitler's ultimatum to Austria and ended with Hitler's resignation was surely the most important week in the front of European history. The events of the past five years reached their climax. The successful bluff and black-mail of the fascist school, the one hand, and the incapacity and petteyness of the Western democratic powers on the other produced a situation in which the British government had to choose between loyal co-operation with France and Russia to save Europe from fascism and adhesion to the fascist bloc. Neville Chamberlain chose the latter alternative. He, to his honor, refused to be a party to it. We cannot but regret that he did not make this choice in 1935 when the British government capitulated to Mussolini, but he has wiped out his weaknesses of the last two years by an act of courage which shows that he is made of stouter stuff than some of us had led him to be. That he has been followed into retirement by Cranborne, the representative of a family that embodies the best traditions of British conservatism, is not negligible. Those of us who have seen Cranborne at Geneva have formed a high opinion of this character, and of the man who has been Lord Cecil of Chelwood, whose evolution in the last few years has been so remarkable. The truth no doubt is that Mr. Cranborne has not fully realized until now the real nature of the policy which they have been the instigators of. They are to be blamed for the escape from the gang of political crooks by whom my unhappy country is at present governed.

If Neville Chamberlain and the "Cliveden group" have been the cause of the present country-house—have their way, it will not be long before Hitler is the master of the European continent. The British government has to be told of the part played in the German intrigue that led to the recent crisis by the "Cliveden group" and the "Cliveden group" who migrated to England to get themselves made into aristocrats and whose money has enabled them to lay hands on two of the most important London newspapers.

The newspapers, the "Cliveden group" and the "Cliveden group" who migrated to England to get themselves made into aristocrats and whose money has enabled them to lay hands on two of the most important London newspapers.

It is to Hitler, not to Mussolini, that Chamberlain and his fascist gang are capitulating. They are not afraid of Mussolini. They know that anybody who capitulates to Mussolini is a traitor, that Italy does not really count as a military power and is not a serious menace to England. The conversations that began yesterday in London have been the mouthpiece of the fascist bloc. Neville Chamberlain's aim, as he said plainly in the House of Commons, was to substitute for the League of Nations a directorate of England and Germany, with France and Italy as far from brilliant.

There is no longer any question of Vanitelli's famous policy of trying to detach Italy from Germany. Neville Chamberlain knows that Italy is not a serious menace to England. He proposes to convert it into a London-Berlin-Rome axis. Not for centuries has England been so in humiliating a position.

London: Neville Chamberlain "may now look in the mud for what is left of British prestige." Eden was forced out of office by the very policy which he had pursued. A personal attack on him in the most truculent speech he has yet delivered. Chamberlain has not only been a failure in his policy, but he has not been able to do anything with impunity. That any British government should propose to come to an understanding with Nazi Germany, and that such a speech is an enormity.

The worst element in the situation is the fact that the British government is now beginning to recognize what a blunder the British friendship has been. They are beginning to see that the British government has been a failure. The British government has been a failure. The British government has been a failure. The British government has been a failure.

The British government has been a failure. The British government has been a failure. The British government has been a failure. The British government has been a failure. The British government has been a failure.

that they were behind Chautemps and Georges Bonnet when the latter deliberately provoked the defeat of the late Chautemps government for the sake of the acquiescence of the Communists and driving the latter out of the Popular Front. There is also every reason to believe that the attacks on the franc, for the apert, of which there was no technical reason, were engineered in the City of London with the connivance of French financial interests and even of certain members of the late Chautemps Cabinet. The terrible irony of the situation is that Leon Blum and his colleagues in the Popular Front government allowed themselves to be made the tools of a foreign policy fundamentally opposed to the interests of France and the interests of their own people. The German gang by their worst enemies. The problem Chamberlain is not more craven imbeciles. They are much more like traitors, putting the interests of their class before those of their country.

On February 12, after five years of rearmament, Hitler began to apply his program of territorial aggrandizement in Europe. The method by which he forced the unhappy Schuschnigg to yield to his demands constituted as flagrant an act of aggression as the invasion of Poland. The best account of what happened was given by G. E. R. Geyse in the London Daily Telegraph. The great Vienna correspondent, before Schuschnigg left Vienna for Berchtesgaden on February 11, he was given to understand that the Nazi plan for his overthrow, found on January 11, the date of Captain Leopold's headquarters in Vienna, would be put into force if he declined Hitler's invitation. According to this plan, Hitler was to be given the right to enter Austria. He was to be given the right to enter Austria. He was to be given the right to enter Austria.

When Schuschnigg went to Berchtesgaden, German troops were actually concentrated on the frontier. The first person to be taken into custody was the first person to be taken into custody. The first person to be taken into custody.

Major's SOME BELIEVE ONUS MUST BE BORNE JOINTLY

Two Resolutions Are Referred to Committee to Organize Policy

OTAWA, March 16.—Relief, described as the most important problem from Ottawa to Vancouver by the mayors of those two cities, was discussed at both sessions Tuesday as the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities opened a three-day conference here.

Unanimity of opinion existed among representatives from small towns to Canada's largest city, Montreal, that the federal government was not doing all it should to ease the burden for municipal taxpayers.

RECONCILE VIEWS
It remained for the resolutions committee to draft a proposal to reconcile the views of those who think the federal government should pay 100 per cent of relief costs and those who defend the municipalities should share.

Two resolutions on the subject were referred to a committee Tuesday. The first was that passed by the Montreal city council Monday as a recommendation to the executive committee of the council that notice be given that they will cut off all direct relief by June 15.

BE BORNE JOINTLY
The second was presented by mayors A. S. McMillan of Ottawa, Ont., and A. K. Grierson of Timmins, Ont. It called for a conference to admit the relief problem must be borne jointly but at the same time call the federal government to assume control and allocate the burden to the provinces and municipalities, having regard to financial resources available.

Mayor Stanley Lee of Ottawa, host at a luncheon tendered by the mayor to the delegates, urged that municipal representatives and city meetings of representatives and place before the meeting for their regarding unemployment relief.

son but at the same time thorough understanding Communist position as it is forced upon Ukrainians in Russia.

If Mr. Swanson disagrees with Fascism then why doesn't he disagree with Communism, since both are anti-democratic, both are totalitarian, both are based on dictatorship, both are based on force, both are based on the same kind of dictatorship and both are based on the same kind of force.

In voting my copy of Prince Skopodsky I'm not supporting Fascism, but I respect him for his increasing efforts to try to liberate Ukrainians from the Russian yoke. He is a graduate of several European universities, mostly the faculty of science and engineering, and can speak nine foreign languages, including English, and has a splendid knowledge of world economics from the standpoint of politics as well as industry. This is my reason for supporting one of my nationality. He may be a Communist or a Fascist, but he is a supporter of democracy and is not sympathetic towards Communism. After all, Fascism is a collection of all nine races into one major movement, and is as much a racket as is Communism.

Regarding his last paragraph, Mr. Swenson's Russia is a supporter of peace, but the world's breeding ground of revolution with cold feet and afraid to strike because of fear within its own boundaries.

If Russia made any progress, during the past 20 years, it sacrificed too many people to gain that. But Russia, by way of contrast with North America, ninety per cent of the population lives on the land. The conversion of every per capita in Russia is of a low order of magnitude. For instance, take telephone or the consumption of kilowatts of electric power in Petrograd and its environs in Russia, and New Jersey, U.S.A. At the same time "Newsweek" New Jersey has more telephone and uses more power than all of Russia. Where is all that progress, that big business, that expanding and use telephone that Russia is supposed to have when she utilizes such "progress" not what we have in Ukraine. It is true that Russia exports millions of dollars worth of grain and products to help her spread the Communist propaganda which Mr. Swenson blindly supports.

Prince Skopodsky is not anxious for the rights of Ukraine even if he is entitled to them. He is anxious to liberate Ukrainians from Russian tyranny and to give them a democratic country of their own. If he people of Ukraine wish to have him or his father, they should go to Ukraine, and let them have him in the meantime he is working hard to organize the Ukrainian people from the cruellest form from the cruellest form that they have ever had.

Co-Op. Creamery Protests To Ottawa
The following resolution has been sent to the federal government by the Viking Co-operative Creamery Association in protest of the importation of vegetable oils.

"Whereas we understand that vegetable oils are coming into Canada marked: Units for human consumption, and that such vegetable oils are admitted duty free, and

"Whereas we understand that such vegetable oils are being sold at a price which is a substitute for the butter sold in this country, and

"Whereas the sale of such processed oils has an adverse effect on the sale of the local butter, and

"Whereas the dairy industry of Canada is now the major industry of the Dominion, and

"Therefore the Viking Co-operative Creamery Association and the fifteen hundred farmers who patronize the said association, respectfully suggest that a duty should be levied on such vegetable oils to the amount which will enable the local butter to compete with such processed oils."

And further, that, believing that new oils must be manufactured into a wholesome product, as convenience may be done, that the importation of such vegetable oils is urged.

Some Important Rules To Obey For Hair-Do

By ALICIA HART

If you want to look your best all the time, do not forget the hair.

To make your hair "do" an extra day or two. If possible, go to the hairdresser the day before every week. Then you won't look a fright when an unexpected guest drops in or have to dash madly for a beauty shop the afternoon of a party.

Ask to have the drier turned off before your hair is thoroughly dry. Leave the beauty shop until hair has been carefully brushed and the waves pushed back into place by the person who set them in the first place. A wave which won't stand brushing isn't worth having, and it's a mistake to leave the shop with hair covered with dry wave lotion.

Wear the same color after month after month, year after year. Hair styles, like fashions, change, and a ten-year-old hairdresser does you as much as does an outmoded dress. Do the first gray hairs only. You are going to have time and money to keep them, and those to follow, perfectly dyed to match the hairs that aren't yet gray. The first gray job means, or should mean, a trip to a beauty shop at regular intervals from that day until the time you give up hair dye entirely.

Get anyone persuade you that brushing makes hair more oily. It simply brings the oil from the scalp down to the ends. For a while, it may be annoying, but, better than you can think, the excess flow of oil will be checked.

Believe for a moment that a beauty shampoo will make your hair dry or brittle or encourage dandruff. The clean scalp is more

Gretchen Davidson, young radio actress, has a type of beauty so fragile that you marvel at her ability to broadcast five times a week. She has gorgeous, big blue eyes, and her soft blonde hair lends itself to a variety of hair styles. One week she may look like a sophisticated woman of the world, the next like a wide-eyed, excited, young thing. She is interested in sports, particularly horseback riding, and loves prize fights—a paradox in the usual fragile type. Born on Friday the 13th, in Chicago, Miss Davidson made her radio debut in 1933 after numerous stage appearances.

Raising A Family

By OLIVE ROBERTS MARTON

Mother, still a little weak, and Daddy quite recovered from that bad day at the hospital, stand with their arms around each other and look at the little child above the pink blanket. The family is home for the first time, in, to, and together.

Then, sleeping so sweetly, lies the little one in a world, their present and their future, a summation of their love and partnership. All they can think of is that they have a child to love and cherish.

O. R. Barton

But deep in their hearts they are planning, however vaguely, they are to be the perfect child. He is going to be sweet and kind and helpful. They vow a little while to themselves that he shall have every advantage they can give him. And if they didn't plan this, they would be very unusual people indeed.

But one small item may come into their minds, and an important one. Little Jack, of course, is going to have something to say about all this. For Jack is a person, too, and he will be times when he will do what is expected of him, but other times when he won't.

This is not a very comfortable company any more, but a three member one, and the junior partner will claim his vote often at the most unfortunate times.

His tiny mind has already begun to budge. He is fondly dubbed a little "animal" by those who think they know him. He is just a cute little puppy, in one sense of the word, but the latest sense of character have already begun to bud.

His living parents have a possession, but it is not a marionette by any means. Many a time they will pull the strings one way, to disconcert him pulling another.

I say all this, because I have known too many disappointed parents. The best attitude to take when watching our new little fellow, is admission of his right to function as a human being rather than as a completely superior little person who will never question our judgment.

In this peacefully uncommittal, resting face so comfortably against the sheet, baby is "will," impulsive, intuitive fear.

Love and admire your baby, permit, and don't worry too much about all this. But it will help you if you know that the little fellow is not made of modeling clay, but stuffed with all the makings of a real person with character of his own.

DOROTHY DIX Says:

DEAR MISS DIX: All during my life I have had lots of friends. My life has never been a dull and empty one because of the friends I have known. I never expected anything from my friends but friendship, but they gave me that and often helped me in other ways. I recently married a girl who belongs to a family that does not believe in friendship. Their argument is that you can't get anything from friends; that they all look out for themselves and your only friend is your pocketbook. They are cold to people and rarely does any one come to their rescue. My wife takes that point of view, doesn't want to go anywhere or see any one. Her family has instilled in her a feeling of suspicion that everything you say to people or they ask you is for the purpose of finding out your business and talking about it. I try to convince her that people don't have any interest in what they can get out of you, but she won't listen. Am I wrong in objecting?

F. X. G.

Answer: I agree with you that life without friends is a tedious, aches and dust, and that those who cut themselves off from all friends, intimate acquaintances and companionship with their fellow creatures make as great a mistake as they would if in a rich and verdant land they chose to dwell alone on some barren and rocky peak.

You are right in thinking that friendship is not a graft. It is a gift. It is something sweet and fragrant and beautiful that enriches existence. It is bestowed upon us for our worth, not for any price that we can pay for it, but because some heart is drawn to us, some soul sees within us something that finds a responsive echo in his own soul. Nothing has ever bettered the definition of friendship given by the little boy who said that a friend was a person who knew all about you and liked you just the way you are.

When friendship becomes a matter of barter and trade, when a man uses another man's friendship to borrow money from him or to get favors of him, or a woman cultivates another woman just because she can spend social gains to her, it is not friendship. It is a racket. Real friendship is the something intangible which binds people together, and it is composed of everything except the graft motif.

It is made up of congeniality, of liking to do the same things, of entertaining and amusing each other, of loyalty, of an affection that makes them share each other's joys and sorrows and of an intimacy that makes them like to confide in each other, sure that what they tell will go on further.

None of us can live to ourselves without being miserable. We must have somebody to talk to, with whom we do not have to do our guard and watch our speech; somebody with whom we do not have to be on our guard, for if we are not, somebody who is interested in our new hat and car and what little Johnnie said; somebody who will sit up as pleased as we are when Tom makes the football team and Mary becomes engaged; somebody who will be with us in our darkest hour of despair and let us see our hearts on their breasts; somebody who will be waiting outside the hospital door when we are sick and who will keep for us if we die.

And we must have somebody to play with. We can't do that alone. There is no favor to a feast if eaten by ourselves, no fun in a party if we are the only one there. Friendship is the pleasure that we give to ourselves by declaring voluntary bankruptcy in pleasure.

No young married couple could make a greater mistake than to cut friendship out of their lives. They should cut it in and give it a warm and hearty welcome. They should realize that it is the only thing that can keep them from getting tired of each other and bring friends and cheer into their homes. And although one does not have friends for nothing, and one must pay for them, the most valuable thing that one can possess because people will do things for us because they like us that they would not do for us because it was our due. DOROTHY DIX.

Certain plays carry with them such unmistakable intent that the reader is left partner ever can fail to understand what is required of him. The fact that he is a partner, that average players that there is no need for further explanation. Before my readers curl their lips in derision at West's stupidity in the following hand, I had better warn them that West is a player, definitely over average. If he could make such a horrible error, he can learn players.

Bulletin Patterns

By Anna Adams

When Mrs. GAYNOR MADDOX reads about the "Spring Dressing" in the Bulletin, it's time for her annual "Spring Dressing." Begin with a pungent essence of green herbs—a clear but soup made of greens from the garden such as parsley, leeks, celery root, and whatever herbs you can lay your hands on. Cook these in a little water until they are soft, and serve as an appetizer to the treats to follow.

With the salad, serve a cold potato in parsley butter and the fresh, green and spring asparagus in the market. Hollandaise sauce if you must, but drawn butter, with a suspicion of lemon juice, is the ideal accompaniment for this spring vegetable.

A huge sprightly bowl of spiced salad comes next—and it comes with nothing more elaborate than a French dressing made of olive oil, vinegar or lemon juice and a dash of salt. Chopped cabbage cut in strips, radishes, green pepper, watercress, carrot, onion, crisp lettuce, chopped parsley, sliced cucumbers, chopped olives, a few chopped raw carrots shredded into golden strips. Taste and lose and then lose.

For dessert, nothing more substantial than the most sumptuous of berries—strawberries served with thick rich cream. A few fresh ladyfingers and there is your greeting to spring in all its simple perfection.

Spring Fishes Around For Menus With Shad

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

When shad swims to the river, it's time for your annual "Spring Dressing." Begin with a pungent essence of green herbs—a clear but soup made of greens from the garden such as parsley, leeks, celery root, and whatever herbs you can lay your hands on. Cook these in a little water until they are soft, and serve as an appetizer to the treats to follow.

With the salad, serve a cold potato in parsley butter and the fresh, green and spring asparagus in the market. Hollandaise sauce if you must, but drawn butter, with a suspicion of lemon juice, is the ideal accompaniment for this spring vegetable.

A huge sprightly bowl of spiced salad comes next—and it comes with nothing more elaborate than a French dressing made of olive oil, vinegar or lemon juice and a dash of salt. Chopped cabbage cut in strips, radishes, green pepper, watercress, carrot, onion, crisp lettuce, chopped parsley, sliced cucumbers, chopped olives, a few chopped raw carrots shredded into golden strips. Taste and lose and then lose.

For dessert, nothing more substantial than the most sumptuous of berries—strawberries served with thick rich cream. A few fresh ladyfingers and there is your greeting to spring in all its simple perfection.

Simple SPRING SHAD (Serves 4 to 6)

Use a 3-pound shad. Clean and wash. Split open along the back, remove large bones. Season with salt and pepper. Brush with melted butter. Place on broiler rack, skin side down. Broil until half done, remove to hot plate. Add a little more butter and broil again liberally with melted butter.

New Social Credit Act Expected Within Few Days

GOVERNMENT IS ATTACKED BY CLEVELY

Criticized For Failing To Provide Federal Building For Edmonton

Criticism of the federal government for failing to provide a federal building for Edmonton was voiced by Walter Cleveley, Conservative candidate in the East Edmonton by-election when speaking at Bonito Boon and Beverly on Tuesday night.

There is no doubt this building is needed, stated Mr. Cleveley. We have different federal government services housed in downtown offices, and in many instances it is necessary to go to two places to transact business with one department concerning the same transaction.

"I cannot understand why this building has not been advocated by the Liberal candidate," he said, "in rentals would be more than repaid for the construction and it would take a number of men off relief and unemployed rolls," stated Mr. Cleveley.

DEVELOP INDUSTRIES

Canada must develop its industries, continued Mr. Cleveley. Export of Canada's raw material to foreign countries for manufacture into finished articles must be curbed, and the raw material manufactured here. He pointed to the increase in imports from the United States in 1937 which, he stated, had jumped 33 per cent. while exports from Canada only increased six per cent. This is a perfect sample of sending our raw products to another country and getting back the finished article.

At the conclusion of the weekly meeting the candidate was asked a number of questions.

Dogs Losing Tag Privileges Here

Citizenship privileges in the form of dog tags have been denied a comparatively large number of Edmonton dogs. A report is being made Wednesday by License Inspector Thomas McCallum showing that 768 tags have been obtained from the city to date this year as compared to 1,041 for the corresponding year in 1937.

Bicycle licenses also show a slight decrease, 686 licenses having been issued as against 729 last year. General licenses issued total 1,686, the figure for 1937 being 1,473. Revenue of the department to date is $7,800 as compared to $7,781 last year.

YELLOWKNIFE LOOKS TO BIG DEVELOPMENT

Fervish Activity in Mining Area W. R. "Wop" May Says

The Yellowknife district is the scene of fervish activity as prospectors and miners are preparing for one of the busiest seasons in the history of northern development. W. R. "Wop" May, superintendent of Canadian Airways Limited, who has just returned from a two week inspection tour of the north, said Wednesday.

All the interest seems to centre on the prospects for rich discoveries along the Yellowknife district just north of the present settlement, said the veteran aviator.

RECORD BUSINESS

"Our company has already booked more business than ever before," said May.

"As Goldfields, we have three planes, one of them being the big Junkers 'Flying Boxcar' working out of Yellowknife and one being a new 'Pittman Corporation' of Canada," he said.

PLEAS OF FREIGHT

"There are piles of freight at the end of steel at McMurtry and Watson, and the bulk of it has been already taken in several carloads," said Mr. May. "The Junkers plane, which carries four or five tons at a time, depending on the character of the loads, is powered by a 940 horsepower Rolls Royce motor, and carries a crew of four."

Bill May Announces Present S.C. Board Of Five Members

Proposal Reported to Amend Any Features In Original Act Which Courts Might Find Ultra Vires

Within the next few days, the new Social Credit Act is expected to be brought into the legislature, Premier William Aberhart declared on Wednesday.

Who's Who

While the Premier declined to give any details in regard to provisions in the act, it was learned from other sources that the bill proposes to amend any features in the original act which courts might find ultra vires.

When Chief Justice Larned Duff of the Dominion Supreme Court expressed the opinion that the act was ultra vires, it was immediately felt that some action would be taken in the courts to have the act ruled out in accordance with his opinion, although he did not state the grounds upon which he based his opinion.

POINTS OF ATTACK

However, the drafting of the amending bill, possible points of attack will be dealt with. The bill, as it stands, provides that the new bill would abolish the Social Credit Board of five members which the act proposed would be made for the appointment by the government of a board of three. The board of five is appointed by statute, with legislation by the government. Some of the members are known to be using their persuasive powers on the board to have the act ruled out, while others are known to be using their persuasive powers on the board to have the act ruled out.

Canadians Pay World's Lowest Implement Prices, House Informed

FARMERS SAID PROTECTED BY TARIFF WALLS

Machine Costs Should Be Low, But Not To Harm Industrial Workers

OTTAWA, March 16.—Canadian farmers pay the lowest implement prices in the world, the House of Commons was told Tuesday by Ross Macdonald, Liberal from Brandon, a centre of the farm machinery industry.

A general discussion of last season's report by a committee which investigated the farm machinery trade developed into a steady demand on the government for lower implement tariffs, particularly in cream separators.

The Brandon member contended this demand was joined by Dr. J. J. McLean (Lib. Rep. South) who opposed any reduction in the 25-per cent tariff on cream separators.

The Renfrew member suggested the committee's recommendation on cream separators should be referred to the tariff board before any action was taken by the government.

In the 20 years before 1933 Canadian implement manufacturers lost money, Mr. Macdonald argued. He agreed machine prices to farmers should be as low as possible but this should not mean throwing thousands of industrial workers on the street.

They might not realize it but Canadian farmers were to be protected under the tariff, Mr. Macdonald asserted. They had duties imposed on many foreign products which competed with theirs and the sale of foreign machinery was prohibited. In view of this, farmers should not oppose reasonable protection for industrial workers.

The Canadian farmer would be the loser if implement manufacturers were forced to close their doors, he asserted. And that might follow if the government adopted the advice of some members and put implements on the free list.

There should be a reasonable tariff with a degree of permanence, long enough to assure fair prices to farmers and high enough to assure steady wages for industrial workers.

THORSSSEN HEADS STUDENT GROUP

Elections are still the vogue on the university campus, this time it being for the election of the University Student Society, ending Tuesday afternoon with the election of Leroy "Chin" Thompson as president. Bill Ziegler as vice-president and Keith Miller as secretary.

The outstanding event in the election was not in the hall, but in the prelude students of the faculty sang, presumably in support of their respective presidential candidates.

As was anticipated, the election campaign took on a noisy aspect Monday with the students driving bagpipes and trumpets and paraded for their respective candidates. Between lecture hours students appeared with tin pans, megaphones, bagpipes and trumpets and paraded through the corridors of the Arts building and Medical building, stopping intermittently to give their yell.

Tuesday morning, the presidential opponent, Harold "Trapper" Johnson appeared in the halls, dressed in a parka and mukluks, carrying a large land mail, soliciting votes from his fellow students.

Monday afternoon featured the baby carriage stunt, when a tall, rugged student dressed in a baby carriage, appeared with a baby carriage, appropriately filled with a gurgling baby, about 31 years old, carrying the sign, "Take them for a ride."

Tory Chief Says Mail Tampered

TORONTO, March 16.—Conservative leader Leopold Stoeser charged in the Ontario legislature Tuesday his mail was being "tampered with" in the legislative building postoffice. Premier Hepburn announced a "sweeping investigation" by a house committee.

Mrs. A. Oliver Dies

MONTREAL, March 16.—Word was received here Tuesday of the death in England of Mrs. Alice Oliver, 80, eldest daughter of the late Sir Thomas Galt, former chief justice of Ontario. Survivors include a son, Herbert Galt, Oliver of Kimberley, B.C.

Commons Debate Lacks Interest For Members

OTTAWA, March 16.—If members of the Commons take no more interest in debate than they appeared to do Monday, there seemed no reason why members should not at all while the house was sitting. W. H. Miles (Lib. Rep. Ontario) Tuesday 10 p.m. announced on the Commons debate Monday that the Commons debate Monday was not of much interest to members of the Commons.

"A 513 yesterday afternoon," Mr. Miles said, "I counted those in the chamber. There were only 14 (Liberal), eight Tories (Conservative), three C.C.F., and one Social Credit. Of this number those listening to the speech were two Tories, one Tories, one C.C.F. and eight Social Credit." (The total membership of the house is 243 in addition to Mr. Speaker.)

Company Seeks to Arouse Public Consciousness to Electrical Servants in the Home Sixty-Three Awards Offered

In order to assist the electrical industry generally by putting greater loads on central stations, helping dealers to sell more appliances and contractors, better wiring, the Canadian General Electric company is sponsoring a national $10,000 prize contest.

The contest, which commenced March 1 and continues until April 16, is designed to create a greater public consciousness of the need of electrical servants in the home. It is felt that there are no number of people who do not know the meaning of a scientifically-planned kitchen or how much labor can be saved by vacuum cleaners, electric washers, irons and other appliances. At the same time, it is pointed out, the majority of people have only a hazy conception of the benefits of air-conditioning.

While no investment is necessary to enter, contestants are asked to secure from General Electric dealers, power companies and electrical contractors, official entry forms on which to write, in a hundred words or less, why the electrical standard of living appeals to them. Detailed information will be found in these entry forms.

The contest, according to the announcement, is regarded as a long-term investment, paying dividends over a period of years in the form of true public appreciation of what the electrical standard of living really is.

In all sixty-three prizes will be awarded. The first prize is a certificate for $2,500 to be applied on the purchase of electrical merchandise; the second and third prizes being certificates for $1,000 and $500, respectively. Other awards range in value from $250 to $50.

Designed to foster and encourage electrical consciousness in the home, the Electrical Standard of Living Contest will play an important part in stimulating business for the whole electrical industry.

Not only will this activity serve the public interest, by the desirability of the prizes offered, but, far greater and more lasting benefits will accrue from the educational opportu-

To enter this contest you don't have to buy anything or otherwise obligate yourself. You simply state, in 100 words or less, why the electrical way of living appeals to YOU. That should be easy after you've read the folder described below.

Amending Bill To Income Tax Act Aimed To Provide More Revenue

OPPOSITION IS EXPRESSED TO TAX INCREASE

Delegation Representing Manufacturers Intervigws Low, Tanner

Opposition to the proposed 100 per cent increase in the larger brackets in the tax on corporations, as suggested in the amending bill to the Income Tax Act, was expressed to a delegation representing the Alberta Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which interviewed Hon. R. B. Bennett, minister of finance, and Hon. R. E. Taylor, minister of lands and mines on Tuesday.

The delegation was headed by F. D. Schille, chairman of the provincial legislative committee of the C.M.A., who acted as spokesman. Included in the delegation, which totaled 21, were John Burns, president of Burns and Company, Ltd., Calgary, and Thomas Ashenbrenner, secretary of the Alberta Branch, C.M.A. Several delegates from other Alberta points attended.

SYMPATHETIC HEARING
Representing the delegation were given a sympathetic hearing and Mr. Low promised to hear them before the cabinet.

The minister declared that the bill would not be printed until an equitable scale had been worked out, members of the delegation stated. They said he assured them that he had considered a tax of seven and one-half per cent instead of five per cent as at present, but he was inclined to think that they would not produce sufficient revenue.

CHANGES REPORTED
Mr. Schille declared that "According to published reports the bill now before the legislature would change the tax from five per cent on the net income of profits of corporations, to a graduated scale ranging from one per cent on the first $100 or any portion thereof, to 19 per cent on the net income between $10,000 and $100,000, the rate thereafter to be 10 per cent on the total taxable income. Our understanding is that the increase would be up to and including $10,000 would be upon each successive $1,000." "We congratulate you upon the proposed reduction of the scale in the lower brackets. This will help the small industries."

"We do, however, definitely oppose the increase from five per cent to 10 per cent on taxable income of $10,000 and over," he said.

Real Property Tax Removed

WINNIPEG, March 16.—Lieut. Gov. W. J. Tupper gave royal assent last night to Winnipeg city charter amendments providing for removal of the statutory 12-mill rate on real property, an increase in the business tax and water rates and city council control of school board, police commission and parks board expenditures.

Royal assent was given 21 bills and the house adjourned until March 23 when a sub-committee will report on taxation measures designed to help Winnipeg to balance its budget.

BIG INCREASE IN REVENUE IS AIMED IN BILL

Increase of $44,000 in provincial revenue is estimated as a result of the introduction into the legislature on Tuesday, by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, provincial secretary, of an amending bill to the Corporation Taxation Act.

Mr. Manning explained that the amendment changes the basis of taxation on trust and loan companies. At present the companies are assessed on gross incomes but under the amendment they would be assessed on the paid up capital at the rate of 1-10 of one per cent.

The 1937-38 estimates, now before the house, showed that loan companies paid $26,000 in corporation tax in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1938, while in the 1936-37 fiscal year under the revised tax they will pay $50,000.

Trust companies in the 1937-38 fiscal year paid corporation tax of $2,000 and under the amendment in the 1938-39 fiscal year will pay $20,000.

The preliminary draft of the amendment provides that every loan and trust company transacting business in the province shall pay a tax calculated at the rate of one-tenth of one per cent on the amount of the paid up capital. In no case, the draft declares, shall the tax be less than $50.

The act comes into force upon royal assent.

TORONTO M.P. IN CITY FOR TORY MEETING

Denton Massey Says Common Will Miss Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett

The House of Commons will greatly miss the personality of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, "greatest statesman this country has known," said Denton Massey, Conservative M.P. for Toronto, who reached Edmonton Wednesday morning.

He speaks at a Conservative meeting for Walter Cleverly, Conservative candidate in the East Edmonton by-election, in the Memorial hall, Wednesday at 8:15 p.m.

"Mr. Bennett was a man of tremendous capacity. His knowledge was varied and the facility and accuracy with which he called upon it made him a figure unique in the House of Commons."

"His work will only be seen in true perspective when the period from 1920-35 is divorced from politics, and that can be done only by time."

NEVER PLAYED POLITICS
"Had he played politics instead of serving his country, as he undoubtedly did, he would, I believe, have been re-elected, but he was too busy looking after the affairs of the nation to play politics," Mr. Massey submitted.

Mr. Massey said he proposed to speak at the mass meeting Wednesday night on the "broad national issues of the by-election rather than on the purely local details."

"It would be presumptuous," he said, "for an outsider to come and tell it what to do with its problems. I purpose reviewing the wider issues in this contest and the national implication when I speak tonight."

SPRIT OF UNITY
"Nothing can be worse in Canada than breeding a spirit that east is east and west is west. It was the spirit of unity that made this Dominion possible, and it is that spirit of unity which alone can make it great. We must learn to cultivate the spirit of compromise and mutual helpfulness."

"As Benjamin Franklin said about 160 years ago, 'If we do not learn to hang together we will most assuredly hang separately.'"

Mr. Massey emphatically defended the right of Social Credit members to present their case, and said the federal members of parliament espousing this theory "were perfectly sincere though sometimes rather difficult to follow," and that he and the Conservative party always "were willing to listen to them."

ALLOWED TO DEFAULT
"It is significant despite what the Liberals say about no discrimination, against Alberta, that Manitoba and Saskatchewan have not been allowed to default, and this province has. Let them dodge or deny that fact if they can."

"And tonight I will discuss this issue at greater detail. Figures can be taught to lie, and they learn that lesson with extraordinary facility but tonight I will give you figures and records of the government in proving my case," Mr. Massey declared.

"Let me say too," Mr. Massey stressed "that in my time in parliament I never have noticed Conservative members interrupting the Social Credit spokesmen, although the members of the Liberal benches are subjecting them to an

MAJOR CHANGE MILK CONTROL METHOD RAPPED

Declaring that many producers were well satisfied with control of the milk industry, it is to be presented by R. Earl Anley, S.C. leader, in the legislature on Tuesday opposed "major changes" in the method of control, as advocated in the report of the special committee appointed last year to investigate the whole situation.

"I haven't enough evidence to justify such a change," said Mr. Anley.

He was speaking on a resolution, moved by W. R. King, S.C., Cochrane, advocating that the report be adopted. The main feature of the report is to transfer control of the milk industry, from the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners to a special board to be established under the direction of the provincial agriculture department.

Mr. Anley took strong exception to statements that the milk problem was "acute." He contended it served a valuable purpose in that it provided much information and data.

John J. Bowen, Liberal, Calgary, referred to a case of a producer, where stool pigeon methods were used. The commission stated it tried to get affidavits on this but could not. He thought such references should be substantiated.

Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture, then adjourned debate and the resolution will be further discussed at a later date.

Premier Refuses Information To Liberal Leader

Replying to a question asked in the legislature on Tuesday by E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader, Premier William Aberhart declared that the information asked for was "not in the public interest."

Mr. Gray asked for figures on the increase in the number of civil service employees on the public payroll since the government took office and the total number of employees as at March 1, 1935, and at July 1, 1937.

Protest was launched by John J. Bowen, Liberal House leader, when the premier gave his reply. Mr. Bowen claimed that such questions always had been answered in the past. No further discussion took place.

The Great Com of 1811 was larger than the sun.

"I am perfectly willing to hear the Social Credit case, and that parliament, one of whose functions it is to act as a safety-valve for the nation, should enable every minority group to present its case fully and to a friendly and tolerant House of Commons," the handsome M.P., one of the rising luminaries of the Conservative party, concluded.

TRUSTEES TALK PLANS FOR NEW SCHOOLS HERE

Tentative plans submitted by R. A. McFee for new schools to be built in the West End, were discussed by trustees, at the management and health committee meeting of the Public School Board Tuesday evening.

It has been suggested that there be a west end high school, a new Glenora public school, and an extension to Calder school. Just what progress can be made in this direction, is as yet undetermined, as the board does not know what funds it will have at its disposal.

Sketch plans, prepared by John Rule of the Technical High School and distributed to the individual trustees, gave a clear picture of the minimum requirements of a modern high school building. It is planned in such a way that it can be extended at any time to form a complete composite high school. In general the plans follow the lines of the Crescent Heights high school in Calgary, of which Premier Aberhart was principal for ten years.

Some of the smallest comets are much larger than our own earth.

Banner Calling Chamberlain To Quit Is Flown

LONDON, March 16.—Police on duty around the house of commons rubbed their eyes in amazement Tuesday when they saw a huge white banner with the words, "Chamberlain Must Go" flying from the fourth floor window of an unoccupied building on the corner of Bridge and Parliament streets, directly in front of Westminster.

The banner was put up during the night by unknown persons who gained entrance to the empty building. It was taken down by police.
